

Przychodnia Weterynaryjna Felis joins the LuxVet Group

Przychodnia Weterynaryjna Felis was founded in 2008 in Brzeszcze by Veterinarian Damian Korczyk. Guided by the motto: "We treat with passion," Dr. Korczyk and his Team work and continuously develop for the benefit of their pet patients and the comfort of their owners.

The facility offers services in a spacious building at 32 Dworcowa Street, where doctors work in four offices. Thanks to the appointment system, the service is very smooth, but if preparation for an appointment requires more time, customers can spend those moments in a comfortable, air-conditioned waiting room, with a receptionist always available to help. During waiting time you can also visit the Dietary Center operating within the Facility, along with a pet supply store, where high-quality veterinary and pet food is available.

Preventive, diagnostic and treatment services for animals are provided at the Felis Facility in a very comprehensive manner. When the consultation requires additional tests, specialist doctors have at their disposal state-of-the-art equipment: an ultrasound machine, a digital X-ray machine (images stored on a digital medium are immediately available for analysis and description, and can also be sent for possible further consultations), a blood analysis machine (results are available in less than an hour), and other diagnostic instruments, including an apparatus for measuring blood pressure, a tonometer (for measuring eyeball pressure).

Surgical procedures are conducted in an operating theater equipped with a cardiac monitor and an inhalation anesthesia machine. After the procedure, the patient recovers under staff observation in the recovery room or hospital room. Sometimes the treatment involves the administration of drugs intravenously. During a drip administration lasting several hours the owner can accompany his or her four-legged friend in a separate special-purpose room.

With expertise, supported by new technologies, the Facility's 4 permanent doctors and 2 associate doctors provide veterinary care in the following areas: preventive health care, reproduction, orthopedics, surgery, cardiology, dentistry and ophthalmology.

They are supported in their work by veterinary assistants and technicians.

"A modern approach to veterinary medicine and openness to new perspectives have made it possible to take a decision to join the LuxVet Group. As Henry Ford said: "Coming together is a beginning, staying together is progress, and working together is success." The partnership with LuxVet Group provides an opportunity to fulfill the adopted mission even more effectively and to meet the expectations of pet patients and their owners more fully. Joining forces to enter a new stage of development brings the potential to benefit from additional energy and opportunities." says Veterinarian Damian Korczyk.

By integrating with the LuxVet Group, the Facility will receive support in the areas of administration and accounting, operations, procurement, human resources and recruitment, IT support and marketing. By joining the network, the Facility will be able to provide even better care for patients, as it will join forces with other Group facilities in joint operations. Through a program of knowledge and experience sharing and participation in training, it will be possible to expand services and improve each other.
